

SUPERLATIVE COMPARATIVE

Chorus

Stronger, faster, bolder, smarter...
Comparatives compare two nouns or verbs.
Strongest, fastest, boldest, smartest...
Superlatives compare one thing to a group.

Verse

But what's the difference?
Why are they different?
What do they do?
Why aren't they equivalent?
A comparative mission is to compare the difference...
Between two things, the 'ER' ending assists them!

A superlative's different in its deliverance!
In any instance it can't be beaten!
The greatest degree or the least degree...
Superlatives usually end in 'EST', normally.

But there's more to explore,
especially if the word has two syllables or more.
Or if it's a long word, that doesn't end in 'Y'...
That's when we use most at the front of the line:
Most beautiful, most exceptional, and inspirational, and intellectual...
Most flexible, most perceptual, most incredible...
Who?
You!
